My son donated Thanks, Bill They are available to buy as a separate item for certain watches, but not all. You didn't mention what type of watch it was. Most major brands, like Rolex, Omega, Tag Heuer etc all sell bezels for their watches, brands though like Diesel, Rotory, Seiko etc, do not sell bezels as a stand alone item. Should you wish to let me know the make and model of the watch, I will see if I can obtain one, or failing that I will see if I have one that will fit. If this is not the case, then if there is anything wrong with the watch, then it should be repaired under warranty. <http://navigator-nsk.ru/userfiles/ekey-integra-manual.xml>

Once you locate it use a pair of tweezer or a paper clip and touch the battery and the AC together for a few seconds and release; you may have to do this twice. This will reset your watch and give you the ability to correctly set your watch. Then spin the analog hands until the date window turns to 21. At this point your watch is reading 12 AM midnight. Then keep turning to set the correct time. If it is 9 am then stop the hands the first time you hit the 9 marker. If it is 9pm, then keep turning until the SECOND TIME your hour hand meets the 9 marker. This is now set for 9 pm. That's how you do it. If you need more clarification let me know. It helps to have someone hold the band on a hard place over a hole. gibAnswer.com questions, earn points and help others. It may not display this or other websites correctly. You should upgrade or use an alternative browser. Casio Mens AMW3401A Analog Diver. If not, get it from Casio's site PDF file. You need to know whether that model needs to be reset when changing the battery that has been the biggest issue I have had with Casio watches when changing batteries. This back case is threaded into the main body of the watch. You need to turn it counterclockwise to unscrew it. They make a special tool to do this, many different ones actually sold on Amazon. Good idea to coat it lightly with silicone. Not that I would necessarily recommend this, but it will work it could also permanently damage your watch, too. Just depends on how adventuresome you are! If it has lugs you will need the special spanner wrench. I've seen the watch tool at Harbor Freight Tools. Don't risk scratching it all up if you don't have the right tool. They can even have it pressure tested if you want for diving watches. He still uses a fully mechanical NCR cash register. The owner's son has a display case with some knives that he sells. Ric I don't know how good it is; haven't tried it. <http://cieesc.com/userfiles/eki-1351-manual.xml>

From the looks of it, it won't scratch your watch but it might not grip strongly enough to open it if it's really tight. That's generally true of the cheaper watch wrenches. It's worth the money. I don't remember exactly what I paid for it. It has three pins that are adjustable to grab every other notch in your 6-notch back cover.
